Two Kinds of Cant.

"I do hate cant, that's a fact," said Smith,
As, returning home from labor,
He talked of conference meetings with Brown,
His fellow-workman and neighbor.
"Just what do you mean!" said Brown; his hand
On the arm of the other laying;
"Why, what we hear in the lecture room,
When brethren are speaking and praying;
A always asks for a hearing ear;
B begs for a holy boldness!
C comes on the bended knees of his soul,
Confessing the church's coldness;
D deplores his deadness"—

"Enough, friend Smith,
There's truth in all you're saying;
But what are you doing to bring about
A change in this style of praying?"
"I doing? pray what would you have me do?
Don't you know, without my repeating,
I never speak in a public way?
Of course I can't pray in meeting."
"You can't, friend Smith—did I hear aright?
It may be the Master in heaven
Finds your sort of can't more offensive to Him,
And harder to be forgiven."

Miscellaneous.

THE TWO CLERKS.

BY WILLIAM L. WILLIAMS.

In Market Square, in the pleasant city of Merryport, was a crockery-ware store, over the door of which was a block sign bearing, in guilt letters, the name Benjamin Hudson. For many yeare this crockery-ware store had been there, with the great pitcher hanging in front for a sign; indeed, when Mr. Hudson first opened the store, some forty years previously, he was quite a young man, and the sign over his door was very bright and handsome; but now his eyes had grown dim, and the owner was called "Old Hudson" by all the boys and girls of the city.

The windows of this store had great attractions for all the children that passed that way. There were beautiful vases, handsome China mugs with "Ellen," "Fanny," "William," and lots of other names inscribed upon them; there were also plates, with pictures on theu representing Franklin's maxims; and funny clocks, shaped like dogs, that would roll there eyeballs to and fro every time they ticked, and many other things, curious and ornamental.

Mr. Benjamin Hudson had grown rich in his business, for he had conducted it all himself, and taking care that nothing should be wasted or lost by neglect. He had made mistakes, to be sure, as every man will make some blunders during a lifetime, but by skillful management he quickly recovered from them. Sixty-five years had begun to bend over Mr. Hudson's shoulders, and dim the brightness of his eyes, and he found business more irksome than it formerly had been.

"I must have a partner," said he, one day to himself, as he sat before a cheerful fire. "I must have some one interested in the business who is young and active, and will take the weight from of my shoulder, for I cannot do as I used to do."

Now in Mr. Hudson's employ were two young men—Herbert Bond and Charles Sehmour. They had been with him an equal length of time, and had performed their duties faithfully and well. Charles did his work quickly, and had a smart way about him that made people think he was greatly superior to Herbert, who had a more quiet demeanor, and accomplished quite as much without making a great stir about it.

"I must have either Herbert or Charles for a partner," soliloquized Mr. Hudson; "which one I cannot decide. They both do very well in the store, but I ought to know something of them out of the store, and I am sorry to say that that is a poiut I have never paid proper attention to. My clerks come here in the morning and go away at night, what becomes of them over night, I know not; and yet I ought to know. Neither of them have parents in the city; they live in some of the numerous boarding-houses, and I hope are steady and well-behaved. I must see them in their homes, and then decide which shall be my partner."

The next day Mr. Hudson ascertained the boarding-places of his two clerks, without letting them know for what purpose; and after supper, that evening, his wife and daughters were somewhat astonished to see him go to the hall, and put on his coat and hat.

"Where are you going papa?" asked Lily, the youngest daughter, who could hardly remember the evening when her father had not remained at home.

"I am going to make a call, Lily, on two young men of my acquaintance; shall not be gone long," replied Mr. Hudson. And, bidding them good night, he went out.

Herbert's boarding house was the nearer of the two, and here Mr. Hudson stopped first. It was a neat looking house, in a very pleasant street. Mrs. Buntin, the landlady, opened the door, when Mr. Hudson rang.

"Does a young man named Herbert Bond board here?"

"He does. Walk in, sir, and I will call him," replied the woman.

"I will go to his room, if you will show me where it is," answered Mr. Hudson. "I presume he is in it?"

"I think so; he is seldon out in the evening. You can step up there if you like, sir,; go up two flights, and the first one on the right is the one," replied Mrs. Buntin.

Mr. Hudson puffed up the stairs, and knocked with his cane at the designated door. It was opened by Herbert, who looked very much amazed when he saw his employer, and said:

"Why, Mr. Hudson, is anything the matter at the store? Nothing happened out of the way I, hope?"

"No—nothing—nothing at all," said Mr. Hudson, walking in, and taking a chair. "I took a notion to call around and see how you were this evening.

Bond expressed himself as being very glad to see his employer; and while he took his hat and cane, Mr. Hudson glanced around the chamber. It was an attic room, with two dormer windows; a good fire was burning in an open grate; a book-rack, filled with book, adorned one side of the room, while the center of the floor was occupied by a table, on which were writing materials.

"You look very cosy here, Herbert; but why do you have an attic room? Are there none that you can have below stairs?"

"O, yes, sir; but this room is a dollar per week cheaper, and I have all the more money to send to my father," replied Herbert.

"Isn't your father well off?" inquired Mr. Hudson.

"Not very, sir; he used to be pretty rich, but his business was disastrous, and he lost a great deal of money," said Bond.

"What do you find to do evenings? Doesn't time hang heavy?"

"O, no, sir! I have books to read, and letters to write. To-night I am writing home; they want me to make them a visit; but I write father that it is a pretty busy time just now, but when it is over I shall ask you for a few days absence," answered Herbert.

"You shall have it willingly," said Mr. Hudson; and then he added: "Does Charles ever call upon you?"

"No, sir. I have asked him to do so several times, but he has never called."

"Are you contented here in this boarding-house?" inquired Mr. Hudson.

"It is a very good boarding-house, and Mrs. Buntin treats me very kindly; but I often wish that I could live at home with my father and mother," answered Herbert.

"And why can't you? How far is it from here?" asked his employer.

"It is twenty-five miles, sir; rather far to travel every day; and then I can not afford the expense," was Herbert's reply.

"What time should you reach the store in the morning?"

"At half past eight, sir."

"And you would have to leave at what time in the afternoon?"

"About half past five, sir."

"Not very bad hours for business. Perhaps it can be arranged so that you can live at home, Herbert."

"O, I should like it so much, if I could! I am so homesick here in the city;" was the clerk's reply.

"Well, I'll look into the matter, Herbert. It seems a pity that one who is fond of his home can't live there, in these times of railways and fast traveling," said Mr. Hudson; and he rose to depart. Herbert thanked him for his visit, and said it would please him to see Mr. Hudson again.

The old gentleman descended the stairs, well satisfied with the call, and said to himself: "Now for Charles Sehmour's. I hope I shall find him as well occupied as Herbert Bond."

On the way to the house, which was three or four streets distant, Mr. Hudson's attention was attracted to three young men, who were talking very loudly, and acting in a rowdy manner, pushing each other against the passers-by, and making rude, insulting remarks to them. It so happened that Mr. Hudson wore a white hat. So when these fellows passed him, they looked behind and said! "O, what a hat!" "Who stole the donkey?" "The man with the white hat!" and similar impolite observations. As they walked much faster than he did, they were soon out of sight.

The boarding-house was reached, the bell rung, and Mr. Hudson admitted. The servant said that Sehmour was in, and ushered him to his chamber door. Mr. Hudson knocked, and the door was immediately flung wide open, and a voice exclaimed:

"Well, old fellow, got along at last, have you? We're all ready for you; have you got the———" Charles Sehmour stopped here, and his face turned deadly pale at seeing, instead of one of his boon companions, his venerable employer. It was several seconds before he could recover his speech. "I beg your pardon, Mr. Hudson; you must excuse me; I expected a friend this evening, and, in the dim light of the entry, I thought you were he. Walk in, sir, and sit down."

Mr. Hudson entered the room, and was somewhat surprised to see there the identical three young men who had insulted him in the street; they were smoking cigars, and had their feet elevated on the bureau, mantle piece and bedstead. Mr. Hudson saw at once that he was a very unwelcome guest. The room was in confusion, and Sehmour's actions were painfully awkward. Nevertheless, his employer started a conversation, and had been there about ten minutes, when a footstep was heard on the stairs; and then the door opened a little way, and a bottle of champagne came rolling across the floor, following immediately by a round Dutch cheese, a bunch of cigars, and two more bottles—Sehmour look dreadfully distressed, but could say nothing. It was a fourth friend who had been out for refreshments, and took this facetious mode of introducing them into the chamber. Mr. Hudson thought it was time for him to go; so he took his leave, and returned to his home. It is almost needlees to say that Charles Sehmour's enjoyment of the evening was decidely marred by this unexpected visit. He and his friends had arranged for a jolly good time.

Mr. Hudson was not long in making up his mind as to which one of his clerks would make the most faithful and efficient partner; and in less than a week it was announced in the papers that Herbert Bond was a member of the firm of "Benjamin Hudson & Co." It was a happy day for Herbert, for he could live at home again, amid the scenes of his childhood; and it was not many before he managed the whole of the business himself, and became a wealthy man.

Charles Sehmour kenw very well the reason of Mr. Hudson's choce, and he never ceased to regreat having formed such unprofitable acquaintances as were ascembled in his room that unlucky evening.

Wait Under Water.

GEN. GRANT was recently visited by a Senator and a Louisania judge who desired to secure the good will of the President elect towards the proposition that the United States government should endorse the bonds of the State of Louisiana, to be issued for the improvement of the levees. The conversation which ensued, so clearly exhibits the wisdom and common sense of Gen. Grant that we print it in full:

"General," said the Senator, "Judge —— wishes to see you a few moments, and consult with you in regard to the improvement of the levees of the lower Mississippi. We wish the United States government to endorse, and thus guaranty the bonds of the State of Louisiana for the restoration and improvement of the levees."

"I hope the government will not do it," the general replied, with a quick, positive utterance that was not only decisive and final on that subject, but almost stunning.

"But, General," urged the Senator, "we only wish the United States to endorse the bonds, so that we can sell them without a ruinous discount giving the United States ample security for the entire amount, so that it would be impossible for the government to lose a cent in any emergency."

Again Grant quickly interrupted, "I never knew you will soon want to legislate for the paymont of the bonds."

"General," said the Senator, "you are too hard on us."

"While we are discussing on all sides," said Grant, "how the national debt is to be paid, I shall oppose any increase of the the national obligations."

"It is impossible to cultivate our lands," interrupted the Senator. "The levees are absolutely necessary."

"I know all about the levees," he answered. "I served in that country when a young man, and I had something to do myself with the breaking of those levees."

"But," said the judge, "millions of acres of the best land in the world are subject to overflow."

"Let them overflow, and let them stay under water," said Grant, "until their owners are willing that Northern men and Northern capital should come in and protect and improve them. Northern men with ample capital are ready to make a garden of your State, and you won't let them do it. Your large landholders are as hostile to the United States government to day as they have ever been; and if that government should rebuild their levees it would not change them a particle. I know no way the government could have adopted for rebuilding the levees but to have confiscated the lands of those engaged in rebellion, and used the proceeds to restore the couutry. As that was not done, nothing remains but to set your negroes to work, and invite in and welcome Northern men."

"General," said the judge, "the negroes won't work."

"Won't work?" Grant quietly inquired; "they'll work if you'll pay them for it."

"Am I not right?" he added. "Is there not such a hostility to Northern men that it amounts in most sections of the State to a practical exclusion of them from the agricultural interests of the country? Is there not an unwillingness to divide up the lands and sell in small parcels to those who might immigrate; and is there not a general tendency to secure the services of the negroes without prompt and adequate compensation?"

"I must say," said the judge, "that there is more or less of truth in all these points."

"Then," said Grant, "I think you will have to build your own levees, or wait under water until you are willing men should come in who will build them."

From The Standard.

Silver Wedding—A Surprise.

On the evening of the 8th inst. a number of the friends of the Rev. J. A. Smith, D. D., editor of THE STANDARD, assembled at his residence on Thirty-first street, taking with them a beautiful sett of silver for him and his estimable wife. The silver, which was beautifully and appropriately marked, was purchased of the well known jeweler, W. H. C. Miller, Esq., and consisted of fourteen elegant pieces. Dr. Smith and wife were absent at a prayer meeting of his church at the University of Chicago, and knew nothing of what was in store for them.

When they returned they found the house filled with their friends, and could not conceive what were the intentions of their guests as the silver had been placed on the piano in the front parlor, from which the Dr. and his wife were carefully excluded. After he and his wife had received the congratulations of those present, Dr. Burroughs, President of the Unversity of Chicago, escorted them into the front parlor, where he joined their hands, and, presenting them with the silver, addressed them in a very happy and humorous manner, and at the close with words of cheer and kindness which deeply impressed all present.

Dr. Smith and wife were much affected. The Dr. said in reply that he knew not how to thank them, as no words could convey the gratitude he felt to those who had so kindly and generously remembered himself and wife. He spoke in earnest and feeling terms of his wife, saying that he thanked God that He had given her to him—the best gift save one that he had ever received from His bountious hand, and that one his hope of heaven, and that since his marriage, often when dishcartened she had cheered and sustained him with a bolder and clearer faith than his own. Much of the time she and others were in tears.

During his remarks Dr. Smith took from his pocket and read the following beautiful poetry, presented to his wife on Christmas morning, in connection with the gift of a ring, and, upon the urgent request of those present, obtained for publication:

The symbol of the marriage ring, dear wife,
Is easier read the longer grows our life.
Both what we wish and what we dread is there;
The endless solace and the endless care.
The round of sorrow, and the round of joy,
The gold, the brilliance, and the cheap alloy.

Receive, dear Jenny, this my pledge once more,
As fondly, truly given as before
The noon shall greet you as the morning did,
And life's full prime a warmer welcome shed.
Once more I wed thee, with this token true,
While heart and heaven record the vow anew

If 'tis the summit where to-day we stand
And sloping downward toward another land
The road leads on; we'll tread it, cheerful still—
And love the valley as we loved the hill.
For there the river runs to whose blest shore,
The loving and the loved have floated o'er.

Then, wear my ring, dear wife, and if too well
The double meaning of its oracle
We read, will raise the symbol higher,
And say, that as in furnace and in fire
The gold was tried, so love and faith have been,
And shine the brighter that the test was keen.

SOME women, applying the words, "till death doth us part," to the wedding ring, never take it off, even in washing their hands. The old proverb,

"As your wedding ring wears,
Your cares shall wear away," has no doubt done duty in its time in comforting and encouraging those who have been minded to try the marriage state.

THE ring was used by the Pagans in confirming contracts, and hence used, as some have supposed, in the marriage contract. It is placed on the fourth finger of the left hand, from the beautiful, but idle conceit that a vein ran from it directly to the heart. The old writers, however, were not, after all, so very wide of the mark. If they had said a nerve instead of "a vain," they would have been nearer the truth; for in neuralgic affections of the heart, as all know who have experienced them, there is a close sympathy between it and the nerves of the left arm, which often seems to culminate in the main nerve of the fourth finger—and this may have given rise to the motion, which is at least beautiful, if not anatomically or physiologically correct.

"ANNA" sends us these lines, which we cannot forbear giving to our married readers. If the men do not relish them they can turn them over to their wives.

ON A WEDDING RING.

Emblem of happiness, not bought or sold,
Accept this modest ring of virgin gold,
Love in the small but perfect circle trace,
And duty in its soft, though strict, embrace,
Plain, precious, pure, as best becomes the wife;
Yet firm to bear the frequent rubs of life.
Connubial love disdains a fragile toy,
Which rust can tarnish or a touch destroy;
Nor much admires what cour's the gen'ral gaze,
The dazzling diamond's meretricious blaze.

Petition From Mrs. Lincoln.

The President laid before the Senate a petition of Mrs. Lincoln, widow of the late President, asking for a yearly pension. The petition is written on note paper with a heavy mourning border, and reads as follows:

SIR—I herewith most respectfully present to the honorable Senate of the United States an application for a pension. I am a widow of a President of the United States, whose life was sacrificed in his country's service. That sad calamity has greatly impaired my health, and by advice of my physician I have come over to Germany to try the mineral waters, and during the winter to go to Italy, but my financial means do not permit me to take advantage of the urgent advice given me, nor can I live in a style becoming the widow of the Chief Magistrate of a great nation, although I live as economically as I can. In consideration of the great services rendered by my deeply lamented husband, and the fearful loss sustained by his untimely death, I may say, I respectfully submit to your honorable body this petition, hoping that a yearly pension may be granted so that I may have less pecuniary cares. I remain most respectfully

(SIGNED) MRS. A. LINCOLN.
Frankfort, Germany.

Referred to the Committee on Pensions.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

SATURDAY, Jan. 2, 1869.

Board met persuant to adjournment and called to order by the Chairman.

Roll called. Present a quorum.

Journal read and approved. Mr. Childs moved that the Chair appoint a member of the Committee to settle with County Officers, caused by the resignation of John J. Robison. Which motion was agreed to, and the Chair appointed R. Behan to fill such vacancy.

The Chairman presented the bond of Phillip Blum, County Treasurer elect, which after being read was, on motion, referred to the following committee appointed by the Chairman, viz., Messrs. Conklin, Cook and Webb.

Mr. Beahan moved that John J. Robison, County Clerk, be continued on the Committee to procure Safe for County Treasurer's Office, which was agreed to.

Mr. Grisson offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Chair for the purpose of ascertaining as follows: First, the amount of delinquent taxes on Trust Fund Lands, returned from this County to the State Land Office. Second, the amount of such taxes that may have been paid to said office and credited to this County, on the books in the Auditor General's Office. Third, whether the Commissioner of the State Land Office has complied with the provisions of law governing the sale of Trust Fund Lands, returned to his office delinquent for taxes, and, Fourth, if it shall appear that the Commissioner of the State Land Office has not complied with the provision of State Law, then to report what remedy, if any there is, for the County.

The Chairman presented the following claims, which were on motion allowed and ordered paid out of the Contingent Fund:

| Delia Harrington, witness fees | $1 34 |
| Elizebeth Harriduton " " | 1 34 |
| Andrew J. Brama " " | 1 46 |
| Eli Monroe " " | 1 34 |

Mr. Grisson offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Board that the interest of the County, as well as that of individuals, will be promoted by a more frequent settlement and payment of claims against the County, and that some mode should be adopted to bring about such a result, either by legislation or by quarterly meetings of the Board, which resolution was not adopted.

Mr. Grisson moved that the Board allow Wm. F. Breakey the amount of four dollars in addition to the amount heretofore allowed on a claim for a Post Mortem examination, and that the same be paid out of the Contingent Fund, which was agreed to.

Mr. Freer moved that the Chair appoint a committee of three, on per diem allowance for the present session, which was agreed to, and the Chair appointed the following as such committee, viz, Freer, Cook and Wall.

On motion the Board adjourned until three o'clock this afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Board met persuant to adjournment and was called to order by the Chairman. Roll called. Present a quorum.

Mr. Childs, from Committee to setttle with County Officers, reported as follows, to wit:

WE, the undersigned Committee to settle with County Officers, report that we have settled with John W. Babbitt, County Treasurer of Washtenaw, through his deputy, Geo. S. Wheeler, and have examined and compared the books and vouchers in his office, and find them correct, and we also find the balance due said County to be as per statement hereby submitted:

YPSILANTI,.....FEB. 6, 1869.

THE RAIL ROADS.

There never was a time in the history of Michigan, when there was such an excitement about Rail Roads. The whole State, every four-corners is intensly excited. The Bill before the Legislature authorizing cities and towns to issue bonds to aid Rail Roads to the amount of 5 per cent of the assessed value of property will no doubt pass. We notice that our Legislators are to have a recess of ten days. Circulating among their constituents they cannot help imbibing the Rail Road spirit. They will go back thoroughly instructed by their constituents, and enact the law by a handsome majority. The governor will not dare to veto it. If he does the people of Michigan will put a veto on him at their first opportunity. What progress is our Ypsilanti Road making? We cannot report substantial progress until the the Legislature acts. It is estimated that $7000, per mile, will prepare the road for the iron. It is 55 miles to Hilsdale, $385,000, say $400,000. Of this amount, Detroit will give $100,000. The fair proportion of Ypsilanti is $50,000. She will vote this sum without a doubt. Saline must have an outlet and she will and can afford to vote $50,000. Mancheste will vote $50,000 Hillsdale, will vote $100,000. The other towns on the route will gladly make up the $50,000. There is a good deal of wrangling in Detroit, in reference to the Adrian air line, and the Hillsdale road. The friends of the former charge unfair treatment in the late citizens meeting, that the Central Rail Road ruled the meeting. These men are bound to push the Adrian road, and apparantly they have the Daily Press, in their keeping. It becomes the friends of the Hillsdale road to push it all the harder. It is worth a good deal to us to have as efficient an ally as the Central to iron and stock the road. Many a road has been projected and even-graded, and there it is a monument of folly, the folly of its projectors, of not counting the cost. The Ann Arbor Road and the Adrian Air-Line will, we suspect, go to the wall from this cause. Our road is a sure thing with a reasonable effort, on the part of the people on its line.

OUR MEMBERS.

Hon. C. Shier, and Sen. Norris, are at home. They have ten days to mingle with their constituents. We feel quite sure that in regard to all questions touching local and State interests, they will be found a unit. A female College draining the money from our good people will find little favor with them. President Haven, favors throwing open the University and why not? All the primary schools, Union Schools, Colleges, but the University admits our daughters. Observe the pupils in our Female Schools, a pale, listless, unambitious set, said an experienced legislator to us, I have noted this fact. 'In our Normal and Union Schools, and other Colleges, the girls are uniformly healthy, vivacious, sprightly appearing, ambitious. If I wanted to ruin my daughter, to severly punish her, I would send her to one of the female schools or colleges.' Such a school is not doing justly by our girls unless it is made fully equal to the University at a cost of $500,000, or more, open all the facilities of education in the State to our daughters. Our mothers, wives and daughters help make up the wealth of the State. But we have not room for our daughters at the Univerity, make room. Charge all those pupils who come from other States, the same as they would have to pay at their own Institutions, and then if they come, it will be the superiority of our University that will alone draw them.

Open the University to all schools of medicine. The moment our Legislators or Regents enthrone one system as England does one religion, exercise the spirit of favoritism, build up a caste, that moment they allienate from its sympathies one half at least and we believe more than half of the intelligence of the State. That moment ought to date the downfall of the University. For let it go to ruin a thousand times better than to build up an aristocracy of caste in this country. Either open the University to all or exorcise all. What business has the State government to take under its wings the Allopathic system of medicine? If the Allopathic, then it must also endorse the Homœpathic, and very shortly the Hydropathic, and with as good if not better claims than either the above. Then the Electic will loudly demand justice at our hands, and the Spiritualistic, claiming 30,000 supporters in our State will have good reason to cry aloud and spare not at the injustice done them. But these systems can't work together. If Allopathists have so little faith in their system that it can't stand the contact and reasonings of another school it is certainly unfit to be made as it now is the corner-stone of our University. Why should Allopathic professors be so jealous of their art and ready to drown all queriests by the insane cry, "Great is this our Diana of the Ephesians," "Touch it not, or it will crumble to ruins," and this must be the end of all argument. Our Representatives will be found on the right side of the Rail Road question, and will advocate and vote for a good, discriminating law, promotive of the general interests and oppressing no class of our citizens.

LEGISLATION.

CONGRESS doing but little that interests the general reader. A good beginning toward economy has been made by refusing Railroad subsidies—Land Grants. We hope Congress will adhere to this decision.

There is no great exciting topic before the country. We shall have to await the appointment of Grant's Cabinet, and his inauguration, for something to write and talk about.

Correspondence of the Lansing Republican.

The Normal School.

HAVING occasion to visit Ypsilanti not long since, we improved the opportunity afforded us and visited our State Normal School, which we found in a flourishing condition, with about 400 students in attendance. Prof. Mayhew and his co-laborers are dilligently at work, nobly fulfilling the mission assigned to each. Their method of teaching fally impressed us with the idea that they are not making bookworms of those under their charge, but sound, practical teachers; who will not have to change the books in every school which they enter to enable them to teach. They are thoroughly drilled in the principles which underlie the respective branches of study, and thus are made independent of authors. They are also drilled in a system of government which will be of practical benefit to them in the field for which they are being fitted. A system of marks on a scale of 3, (3 being perfect, and a less number a lower grade,) is used to record the standing of students in their classes, which system works somewhat imperfectly, as in the following report of the average standing of the different classes for December, where the idle student shares the honors of his industrious class-mates, in return for which he compells his industrious friends to share his reproach:

Gov. Crapo.

WE give the concluding portion of Gov. Crapo's late message. It is worthy of the man:

IN conclusion, I avail myself of this opportunity to express my grateful thanks to the people of Michigan for the high confidence they have reposed in me, and the cordial support they have given me, during my term of office. To have occupied the Gubernatorial chair during a period of such marked progress in the history of the State—to have been connected with the adminstration of its affairs, and instrumental, in any degree, in promoting its growth and prosperity, is to me a proud distinction. I leave the office without regret. Its duties are manifold and always pressing; and its responsibilities burdensome and sometimes oppressive. I think I repeat the sentiments of predecessors when I say that the office brings to its occupant cares, anxieties and perplexities commensurate with the highest honors it confers.

In the discharge of its duties differences of opinion necessarily arise. The wishes and interest of individuals conflict with the judgment of the Executive, and oftentimes the conflict provokes the harshest criticism. The constant pressure of personal solicitation, well intentioned but frequently ill-judged--the persistent entreaty to deviate from well-settled principles of action, render the free exercise of the functions of the office difficult and laborious.

It is with a sense of obligation that I acknowledge the support which has been generously awarded to me by the Legislature, in the approval of my views and recommendations. While endeavoring faithfully to discharge the important duties which have been confided to me, I have been aided and strenghtened by the kindness and consideration shown to me by the people and their representatives.

The interests of this people and the prosperity of this State will always be near to my heart. I have faith in the future. With resources varied and unrivalled—with elements of growth unsupassed—with a people intelligent enterprised and moral, Michigan is destined to occupy a front rank in the sisterhood of the States. As my parting injunction, in surrendering the trust which it has been my privlege to hold, let me urge the Legislature and my fellow-citizens to be guided by principle and absolute rectitude. Let no consideration of momentary advantage blind your eyes to the permanent and positve good of the State. Be slow to listen to the deceptive allurements of temporary expediency and policy, remembering, in the words of Jefferson, that "whatever is morally wrong cannot be politically right.

LET business men make a business of advertising, paying as close attention to it as to any other portion of their business, and they will be surprised at its wonderful results. Said one of the shrewdest and most successful business men we ever knew: "No business man ought to think of expending less per year for advertising than for the rent of the store in which he does his business. He cannot afford to."

Michigan University Annual Catalogue

From Mr. John H. Burleson, Secretary and Steward of the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, we have just received a copy of the annual catalogue of officers and students for the college year 1868–9. It contains, besides the usual list of students, and the discipline, degrees and general statement of the course of study etc, in the University, a "synchronistic view of class exercises and lectures in the several courses" of instruction afforded there.

The summary of students for the present year gives the following:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Department of Science, Literature and Arts, | | | |
| Resident graduates | 10 | Mining and Engineering | 11 |
| Seniors | 39 | In selected studies | 74 |
| Juniors | 75 | In higher chemistry | 34 |
| Sophomores | 68 | In pharmacy | 20 |
| Freshmen | 91 | | |
| Total | | | 422 |
| Department of Medicine and Surgery | | | 358 |
| Department of Law—Seniors, 134; Juniors, 208 | | | 342 |
| Aggregate | | | 1122 |
| From this number deduct for names twice counted | | | 8 |
| Total in the University | | | 1114 |

Detroit Newspapers.

The returns of the Detroit Post, Advertiser and Tribune, and Free Press, for the past nine months, for sale of newspapers, stands upon the books of the United States Assessor's office as follows:

| | Six months. Oct. 1, 1868. | Three months. Jan. 1st, 1869. |
|---|---|---|
| POST | $28,963 42 | $14,091 87 |
| ADVERTISER | 27,740 00 | 16,989 35 |
| FREE PRESS | 23,620 68 | 10,715 12 |

We are somewhat surprised to see the great difference in the patronage given to the Republican papers over the Democratic organ. How is it to be accounted for?

EQUAL SUFFRAGE.

The House has submitted an amendment to the Constitution as follows; by 150 to 42, a two thirds vote.

SECTION 1. The right of any citizen of the United States to vote be denied or abridged by the United States or any State, by reason of race or color or previous condition of slavery of any citizen, or any class of citizens of the United States.

SEC. 2. That Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article.

A Freak.

About a fortnight since a gentleman purchased a set of silver ware at the store of C. BLISS, in this city, paying for the same with gold coin—unfamiliar currency of these days. The coin was placed in the money-drawer, with other money, by one of Mr. BLISS' sons, unknown to Mr B. In making change with a customer Mr. B. paid one of the $5 peices for two cents; the mistake was discovered upon the return of the, son but who the person was that received it was unknown. About a week after a gentleman called at the store and the following facts ascertained. The person that received the coin from Mr. Bliss, paid the same to another person for 2 cts., that person paying the same to a grocery keeper, in the town of Salem, for 2 cts.; the grocery keeper in paying a small boy for cutting some wood paid the same piece for 2 cts. The parents of the boy discovering the mistake, returned the same to the grocery keeper, who traced the coin to the person that received it from Mr. Bliss—it having passed through the hands of four different persons unnoticed for 2 cts The coin was returned to Mr. Bliss and properly exchanged by the grocery-keeper, after which it was where it probably will not soon again be mistook for a copper coin —Ann Arbor Argus.

Curious Accident.

Mr. W. H. Coleman of this city, informs us that the westward bound express train on the Michigan Central, upon which he was a passenger, on Tuesday afternoon last, just before reaching Albion, came very near commiting a homicide—only it did'nt An ancient German couple were crossing the track in a lumber wagon, about forty rods from the depot, when the locomotive struck the wagon and smashed it up generaly, and caught the occupants on the cow-catcher, leaving the horses entirely unharmed to pass on their way. The old couple came riding into town on the cow catcher closely seated side by side, and upon the halting of the locomotive, the gentleman rushed for his loosened team, while his better half expressed her surprise at the sudden change given to the direction of her journey, greatly to the amusement of the passengers on board the train, and of the crowd who were collected at the station.—Battle Creek Journal.

A STORY WITH A MORAL.—When trade grew slack, and notes fell due, the merchant's face grew long and blue; his dreams were troubled through the night with sheriff's bailiffs all in sight. At last his wife unto him said, "Rise up at once, get out of bed, and get your paper, ink and pen, and say these words unto all men: 'My goods I wish to sell to you, and to your wife and daughters, too, my prices are so very low, that each will buy before they go.'" He did as his good wife advised, and straightway went and advertised. Crowds came and bought off all he had; his notes were paid, his dreams were glad, and he will tell you to this day how well did printer's ink repay. He told us with a knowing wink, how he was saved by printer's ink.

POWER OF ADVERTISING.—A Minnesota editor says that a man came into his office to advertise for a lost dog, and that such was the wonderful power of advertising that the dog walked into the office while he was writing out the advertisement.

SCENE in a French hospital. The surgeon comes in, grave and disturbed. "How many dead this morning?" he asks of the nurse. "Nine." "Bother! I gave ten prescriptions last night, didn't I?" "Yes; but one didn't wish to take his."

A GOOD newspaper is like a sensible and sound-hearted friend, whose appearance on one's threshold gladdens the mind with the promise of a pleasant and profitable hour.

SOME one has beautifully said; "The water that flows from a spring does not congeal in winter, and those sentiments of friendship which flow from the heart cannot be frozen by adversity.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to the directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver, and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of Pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric uice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the coughs, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schench, in his treatment, does not try te stop a cough, night sweats, chills and fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has Consumption, of course the lungs, in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast dedaying. In such cases, what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now, the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and, as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease, and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck'e preparations with the same remarkable success. Full directions accompany each, makihg it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients want their lungs examined; and for this purpose he is professionally at his principal office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed.

Price for the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, each $1 50 per bottle, or $7 50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box.

For sale by all druggists. 256y1

TRADE CIRCULAR For January, 1869.

CONTAINING a list of valuable and useful articles, for sale at ONE DOLLAR each; also liberal inducements for forming Clubs.

It also contains information, which we think, will be important to any person sending money to the Gift Enterprise One Dollar Concerns.

It is the opinion of some of our City and State officials, that if this circular is circulated in all parts of the country, it would be the means of saving a great deal of money, which is now lost by sending to these unlawful concerns. On account of our immense trade, and of the depreciation in merchandise, we are now offering to agents better inducements than ever before offered. Copies sent free to any address.

Eastman & Kendall,

65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,

Licensed Wholesale Dealers by the U. S.

Established 1364.

THE goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a White Bed Quilt or a Silver-plated Revolving Table Castor, with five bottles. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade, (Nasby's paper,) says of us:

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE 'HUB.'—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the Dollar establishment of Eastman & Kellogg. Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words throughout the middle and western states, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their club system of selling goods has done more we believe during the past few years, to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as for instance, cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

☞ Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs.—Ladies specially wanted as agents.

Partial List of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:

CLUB OF THIRTY. ($3.) 21 yards bleached or unbleached Cotton Cloth, photograph album, 100 pictures, elegant morocco binding. Revolving oval band. Silver plated table castor, 5 bottles; ladies' dress pattern, a lady's richly ornamented black walnut writing desk, fancy cassimere pants pattern, large white all linen table cover, white lancaster counterpane, 20 yards calico, alhambra bed quilt, ladies' morocco shopping bag, good cottage clock.

CLUB OF SIXTY. ($6.) 42 yds. Bleached or unbleached Cotton, fashionable dress pattern, 3 1-2 yards wool cassimere for pants and vest pattern, fashionable woolen shawl, white marseilles counterpane, lady's large genuine morocco shopping bag, lady's fashionable cloak pattern, pair good white woolen blankets, black alpaca dress pattern, 4 yards double-width water proof cloaking, 6 yards farmers' good Wool frocking, rose wood brass alarm clock, lady's fur muff, set misses furs muff and collar.

CLUB OF ONE HUNDRED. $10. 65 yards good bleached or unbleached cotton cloth one yard wide, lady's or gent's new silver hunting case watch, fashionable thibet dress pattern, elegant black alpaca dress pattern, one pair of good white woolen blankets, large size; lady's fashionable double woolen shawl, two large fine bleached linen table covers, with one dozen large sized dinner napkins to match; 25 yards hemp carpeting, 7 1-2 yards fine cassimere for suit, one dozen ivory handled steel bladed knives and forks, one dozen rogers' best silver plated forks on white metal, portable sewing and embroidering machine, 7 1-2 yards double width water proof cloaking, set of furs, muff and collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, don't fail to send it to us, and at the same time ask for our New Circular and Mammoth Exchange List. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city, will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send money in registered Letters in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

N. B.—Our sale should not be classed with dollar jewelry sales and gift enterprises.—Send to us for decision respecting our business by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, dated Washington, Nov. 4, 1868. If you want prompt returns for your money, send your clubs to

TO PHYSICIANS,

NEW-YORK, August 15th, 1867.

Allow me to call your attention to my PREPARATION OF COMPOUND EXTRACT BUCHU. The component parts are BUCHU, Long Leaf, CUBEBS, JUNIPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.—Buchu in vacuo, Juniper Berries, by distillation, to form a fine gin. Cubebs extracted by displacement by liquor obtained from Juniper Berries, containing very little sugar, a small proportion of spirit, and more palatable than any now in use. The active properties are by this mode extracted.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists generally is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this [its active principle] leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in my preparation predominates: the smallest quantity of the other ingredients are added to prevent fermentation; upon inspection, it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopœa, nor is it a Syrup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflammation exists. In this you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of preparation.

Hoping that you will favor it with a trial, and that upon inspection it will meet with your approbation.

With a feeling of confidence,
I am very respectfully,
H. T. HEMBOLD,
Chemist and Druggist, of 16 years experience in Philadelphia, and now located at his Drug and Chemical Warehouse, 594 Broadway, New-York.

[From the largest Manufacturing Chemists in the World.]

"I am acquainted with Mr. H. T. Hembold; he occupied the Drug Store opposite my residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equaly so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise.

On motion adjourned.

C. HOLMES, Sec.y.

County Rep. Convention.

Capt. Allen elected temporary chairman, C. P. King, Ann Arbor, Sec.

Permanent chairman, James McMahon.

Delegates to State Convention from this District, Charles Shier, Nelson Booth.

District Convention, Capt. Allen, Henry Waldron.

Geo. S. Wheeler of Saline is nominated for County Superintendent.

Mr. Wheeler is an old and successful school teacher.

Advance Payments.

The Publishers' Convention convened in Lansing last week, unanimously adopted a resolution in favor of advance subscription payments.

Theodore Tilton.

We can congratulate the Ladies' Association for their good fortune in securing the services of Mr. Tilton.

Gough, Tilton and Anna Dickinson are the favorites of our citizens. Miss Alice Logan would probably be added to the list if she could be obtained.

Of Mr. Tilton, nothing need be said further than this: He will lecture at Union School Hall next Monday evening, Feb. 8th. Subject—"The American Woman." We will add, however, the following amusing episode:

A Lecturer mistaken for a Lumberman—Theo. Tilton declines "shoe-packs."

BAY-CITY, Mich., Jan. 24.

From the Advertiser & Tribune.

On last Monday afternoon an individual of more than ordinary stature and very erect in person, with a heavy growth of light hair, slightly curled, combed back of his ears, wearing a broad brimmed black felt hat, a very short sack coat of rough, black material,—just a fair hybrid between a blouse and a round-a-bout; very coarse, light colored pantaloons, but with a little nap in the region of the knees; low top, dilapidated shoes, revealing a pair of butternut colored stockings, enormous shirt collar, and a cravat that puts description in shackles, stepped into one of our genteel shoe stores to repair his understanding by the purchase of a new pair of shoes. The clerk had been accustomed to sell supplies to lumbermen, and supposing he knew what the stranger wanted, made haste to bring a bundle of "shoe-packs"—which is a boot legged moccasin made of untanned leather and twine by woodsmen and indians. The stranger preferred a pair of shoes. "Why," said the clerk, "these are just the things to go into the woods with." The stranger declined the "shoe-packs" and not being able to find a suitable fit, appeared that evening in a pair of veterans on the platform, where he delivered to a large and delighted audience his celebrated lecture on "American Woman."

When Mr. Tilton comes again to address our people he will doubtless be too well known to hazard being served to "shoe-packs," and it matters but little what he wears, he will wear well as long as he sees fit to come this way. C.

Pease's Enoch Arden.

Who has not read Enoch Arden? A most thrilling poem, by that prince of poets, Tennyson. Mr. F. H. Pease has set it to music, and we have published the Operetta for him. This Operetta will be performed with appropriate costumes and scenery at Hewitt Hall. There will be a chorus of 30 voices of the State Normal School, under the direction of the Composer, assisted by superior aids as tenor, soprano, contralto, basso, Mr. Walter Hewitt, violinist, Mrs. Alice Uhl, pianist, and Mr. D. B. Hopkins, of Detroit, tenor.

The mere reading of Enoch Arden excites the profoundest sympathies. We pity the person who can read it and not shed the sympathetic tear. Acted out, sweetly sung, by such performers as Ypsilanti affords in rich profusion, it must be the richest treat ever presented to this community. Friday and Saturday evenings, February 12th and 13th, says our double sheet speaking posters.

The Free Press.

Some weeks ago we asserted what we supposed to be a fact, that the Advertiser & Tribune is the oldest paper in the State. It proves to be an error. The Free Press, and no doubt correctly, claims the honor, by a few months. Long may it wave, always excepting its politics the last dozen years.

Sent Up.

Last Monday. Justice Brinkerhoof sent to the Reformed School at Lansing, John Taylor, a colored boy, on account of the exercise of very mischievous propensities.

Temperance Party.

A few persons met at Jackson last week, and organized a party on the temperance basis. It will wedge its way into public favor slowly, drawing mostly from the Republican party.

Good Templars.

The following is the list of officers installed in the Ypsilanti Lodge of Good Templars, on Monday evening, Feb. 1st, by H. S. Weeks, Lodge Deputy:

W. C. T.—Capt. E. P. Allen.
W. R. H. S.—Miss Frank L. Stewart.
W. L. H. S.—Miss Frank H. Fairchild.
W. V. T.—J. Q. Williams.
W. S.—S. C. Drake.
W. A. S.—Miss Mollie Camp.
W. F. S.—Albert G. Frost.
W. T.—Miss Sarah Littlefield.
W. C.—Wm. McAndrews.
W. M.—A. J. Clark.
W. D. M.—Miss Anna Shutts.
W. I. G.—Mrs. N. B. Perkins.
W. O. G.—A. A. Heartt.

Alf. Burnett,

America's Greatest Humorist, and James Taylor, England's Greatest Comique, assisted by Miss Helen Nash, Prof. Sharpley, and Thos. Kilner, will give an exhibition at Hewitt Hall, this Saturday evening. Admission, 50 cts. Children, 25 cts. These gentlemen are pronounced by the Press of New-York as the "two funniest men in the world," and Miss Nash as an eminent violinist and pianist. **

Scenic and Art.

Beginning the 15th inst. Prof. Owen will present to the Ypsilanti public a very interesting series of lectures. See bills.

The Arlingtons.

We take pleasure in informing our citizens that the Great Arlington Minstrels, from Arlington Hall, Chicago, will appear at Hewitt Hall, Thursday evening, February 11th; positively one night only, as the Company appear at Marshall on the 12th, Kalamazoo the 13th, and re-open at their Opera House in Chicago on the 15th, for the season. The Arlington's should not be confounded with ordinary traveling companies, but is an organization that appeared for eighteen consecutive months before crowded audiences, in the metropolis of the west. We expect to see Hewitt Hall filled on Thursday evening next with lovers of refined minstrelsy. 1

Ann Arbor Business College.

And Telegraph Institute. This very prosperous Institute is this year thronged as usual by students from all parts of the country. Hundreds of young men of thorough culture and successful business experience occupying most important and lacrative positions in the business world, bear testimony to the high reputation of this College as a first class Business Institute. Actual Business is combined with theory, frequent reviews and examinations are held, and every student who receives a diploma is thorough master of the course, and qualified to take charge of any set of books in any branch of business. These facts in connection with the high character of Ann Arbor as an educational point are conclusive arguments in favor of this Colledge. Every young man who desires to acquire a thorough practical business education should take a course in this Institution.

For further particulars send for Circulars, Specimen of Business and Ornamental Penmanship and Colledge Currency, enclose three stamps and address the President.

A. C. PARSONS, A. M.,
Ann Arbor, Mich.

IT is strange to see with what carelessness some invailds attend to their health. They will procure a box of Plantation Bitters, which ought to be used in a month or six weeks, and upon inquiry it is found that they have used only two or three bottles. Some days they have used it according to the directions, and others have not touched it. The whole trial has been irregular, and of course a less faverable result has come from their use. If it be true that "what is worth doing at all is worth doing well," how emphatically is it true in matters relating to the health. A few bottles of Plantation Bitters have often wrought wonders, while in other instances disease has only been subdued after weeks of resistance.

MAGONLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price.

IF you have a discharge from the nose, offensive or otherwise partial loss of the sense of smell, taste or hearing, eyes watering or weak, feel dull and stupid or debilitated, pain or pressure then you have the Catarrh. Thousands annually, without manifesting half the above symptoms, terminate in consumption and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive or less understood by the physcians. R. V. Pierce, M. D. of Buffalo, N. Y., is the propietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy,—a perfect Specfic for Catarrh, "cold in the head," or catarrhal headache which he sends to any address, post paid, for sixty cents, or four packages for $2.00. Sold by most druggist everywhere.

IF the dyspeptic will use the Constitution Bitters, he need no longer be discouraged, for they are a remedy that will produce the most satisfactory results. Try them ye afflicted by all means, if you have not, and be cured.

Old and young use Seward's Cough Cure.

IF Samson's strength actually lay in the length and abundance of his hair, a liberal use of the famous "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative" ought to impart many times the strength of that doughty ancient warrior, for there is no limit it will not reach if properly applied.—N. H. Patriot.

PROGRESS.—Columbus sailed to the American coast in a four hundred ton ship, and first landed upon the Island of St. Domingo Last week a vessel from St. Domingo unloaded in New-York over four hundred tons of St. Croix Rum for P. H. Drake & Co., of that city. This is but a few weeks' supply of this article, which these gentlemen use in the manufacture of the celebrated PLANTATION BITTERS. We are informed by an exchange that Messrs. Drake & Co. have not advertised a dollar for a year, but that the sales of this article continue at tht former enormous figure. In 1864, the receipts of the PLANTATION BITTERS were equal to those of the New York & New Haven Railroad.

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price.

A CURIOUS OFFER.—Dr. Sage has discovered a perfect specific for Catarrh, "Cold in the Head," Dizziness, Tainted Breath and Catarrhal Headache. The proprietor, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., offers $500 for a case of Catarrh that he cannot cure. It is the cheapest and best remedy for that loathsome disease ever offered to the public. Don't be put off by your druggist with some miserable substitute If he has not yet got Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy for sale, let him order it or send sixty cents to the proprietor and it will reach you by return mail.

For sale by most Druggists every where.

"Why stand you thus amazed?" To see a person of your natural beauty with a head of dry, bristling, unkempt hair! Go purchase a bottle of "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative." It will transform your hair into beautiful glossy ringlets. Nothing so efficacious has ever been offered to the public.— Lowell Courier.

WE all admire a dark and glossy head of hair, and by using the Alisma, can soon have the soft and wavy tresses of youth. Try it by all means, and see what wonderful effects it will produce.

For all diseases of the throat and lungs try Seward's Cough Cure.

To the Working Class: I am now prepared to furnish all classes constant employment at their house, the whole of the time, or for the spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Fifty cents to $5 per evening, is easily earned by persons of either sex and the boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. Great inducements are offered those who will devote their whole time to the business and that every persons who sees this notice, may send me their address and test the business for themselves, I make the following unparaled offer: To all who are not well satisfied with the business, I will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing me. Full particulars, directions, &c., sent free. Sample sent by mail for ten cents.

The American Cooking Stove Again in Court!

United States Court, Northern District of N. Y., Albany, Oct. 17, '68.

Jacob H. Shear and Joseph Packard, vs. Zebulen Hunt and William J. Miller.

The Hon. Samuel Nelson, Judge.

This suit was brought for infringing the patents on a Shaking or Vibrating Ash Sifter, and the combination of a Sifting and Ash Pan in the Hearth of a Cooking Stove, an injunction was granted restraining their use.—Messrs. Hunt & Miller have now arranged for a license, and will hereafter manufacture and sell under a license from us. All other persons are cautioned against manufacturing, selling or using Stoves with these improvements, as all infringements will be promptly prosecuted. SHEAR, PACKARD & CO.,

The American Cooking Stove.

ANOTHER PATENT SUIT.—We understand Messrs. Shear, Packard & Co. have been compelled to commence a suit against Hunt & Miller, of Hudson, for infringing the patent on the Ash Sifter in the American Cooking Stove. This is the fifth suit they have been compelled to bring against different parties for infringing the different patents on this Stove. The four previous suits have esulted favorably for S., P. & Co., and they are determined to follow up all cases of infringement until others cease from appropriating their improvements.—Albany Evening Journal, July 29th, 1868.

All persons are cautioned agianst selling or using Stoves with a Shaking Ash Sifter in the hearth, or under the grate, as this improvement is fully secured to us by five different Patents, and all persons selling or using Stoves with this improvement, will be liable to prosecution for infringement, as we have granted no licenses to other parties to make or sell this improvement, and all infringements will be promptly prosecuted.

AN INVALUABLE MEDICINE FOR THE PURIFYING OF THE BLOOD. DR. J. W. POLAND'S HUMOR DOCTOR

A Positive Remedy for all kinds of Humors,

Scrofula, Scurvy, Salt-Rheum, Carbuncles and Boils, Ulcers and all obstinate Affections of the Skin, Inflammatory or Chronic Rheumatism, Piles, Chronic Diarrhœa, Mercurial Diseases, and every taint of the System; Dyspepsia, and those Affections originating in the Derangement of the Digestive Organs; viz., Bilious Complaints, Neuralgia, and Nervous Affections, Headache, Languor, and Depression of Spirits, Loss of Appetite, Constipation.

THIS excellent medicinal compound was first prepared by Dr. J. W. POLAND, in 1847, and was then employed with great success in expelling humors from the blood; but in 1848 a medical friend who was quite celebrated as a physician, especially in the treatment of humors, suggested some important improvements, which were adopted, and which has made it (so the people say) the very best remedy for all kinds of humors known to "the faculty."

This preparation is composed entirely of vegetables, among which are Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Noble Pine, Mandrake, and Bloodroot.

When the originator lived in New Hampshire, at Goffstown Centre, for the space of thirty or forty miles around, and in Manchester particularly, the Humor Doctor was well known and highly valued for the numerous and wonderful cures which it effected. Though manufactured in large quantities, the supply was frequently exhausted, and purchasers had to wait for more to be made. In that region, some very severe cases of Erysipelas were treated with,—and they were cured! Erysipelas sores, or carbuncles,—those ugly, painful ulcers,—were entirely removed wherever this medicine was faithfully used. So it was with Scrofula and Salt-Rheum. The Humor Doctor cured them.

It is free from any dangerous drugs, is pleasant to the taste, safe, yet sure and effective in its action.

PREPARED AT THE

NEW-ENGLAND BOTANIC DEPOT,

And for sale by all Dealers in Medicine.

Fix Up the Implements.

During the winter every implement and machine that will be required next spring and summer should be overhauled and repaired. Examine the ploughs, and if they have been neglected and are rusty, wash off the dirt, and then apply, with a swab fastened on the end of a stick, a mixture of one part sulphuric acid and two parts water. Rub the mould-board and other parts that are rusty with this liquid until the rust is all removed; then wash it off and rub it dry. Then smear it over with crude petroleum or some other cheap oil, and next spring you will be saved from the loss and annoyance of clogging. Every farmer should buy a barrel of petroleum, and use it freely on all his wagons, machines, implements, etc. It will keep the iron from rusting and the wood from decay, and in cold weather it is a useful lubricating oil. We find it absolutely essential to keep on hand several sizes of carriage bolts. With these and a brace, and a set of bits, nearly all ordinary fractures can be easily repaired. It is a great convenience, also, to have a vise, and to keep on hand an assortment of uncut nuts, with the tools for making the thread in them and also on the belts. All these things can be obtained at a hardware store, and a farmer who buys them will never regret it. But if it is necessary to take anything to the blacksmith's shop now is the time to do it, and when it is repaired, clean off the rust, paint it with linseed oil, and put it away for use in the spring. If the farmer or his son would go over all the implements, machinery, wagons, hay racks, tools, etc., paint them, oil and tighten the bolts, and see that everything is strong and in good order, it would not only lessen the blacksmith's bill, but would save much precious time and no little annoyance next spring and summer. The winter is also the time to make whiffle-trees and three-horse eveners. It is a great advantage to have an extra set of these on hand.—American Agriculturist.

Card the Cows.

One would think that any kind-hearted man, when he sees how grateful this operation is to a cow, would be willing to spend a few moments daily in carding her. It pays as well to clean a cow as a horse. All who have fairly tried it find great benefit from the operation. And yet not one farmer in a hundred makes it a practice to use the card or curry-comb in the cow-stable. We know stupid men who laugh at the idea as a mere notion of some fancy farmer.

A Perilous Adventure.

From the Port Huron Commercial.

Leon de Boux, a native of Guspe, in Lower Canada, and for the last four months at work on the Manitou Island, left his log cabin on Saturday the 2d inst., with his dog, a large powerful Newfoundland, in pursuit of game. He soon discovered the fresh tracks of a large bear. Cautiously following it he reached the shore of Lake Huron, and saw at no great distance on the ice a very large animal. Climbing over huge blocks which the storm of the previous night had strewn in wild confusion on the rocky coast, he approaches suddenly, the bear stopped, and tried to retrace his steps to the neighboring forest. To intercept the animal, De Boux and dox went on the ice, which seemed secure, as the road was for miles unintercepted by water. He gained on the bear from minute to minute; when he saw to his astonishment that the huge beast stopped, looked around and retraced his steps, chasing the dog before him. He shot and a well-aimed ball entered the head and killed him on the spot. Rushing toward the carcass, he did not observe that the wind had changed, that the ice groaned and cracked. He reached the beast and tried to drag it to the shore, not more than three-fourths of a mile distant. But imagine his surprise when he found that the wind blowing fresher and more violent had made a chasm between him and the land more than two rods broad. At once seeing his perilous position he fired rapidly and hallowed at the top of his voice; no one answered, echo alone brought his own voice back out of deep recesses and rocks, and he was rapidly drifting, in a southwesterly direction, to the middle of the lake. His position was indeed most dangerous, the wind increased from moment to moment, and when night set in, it blew a perfect hurricane, breaking the large piece of ice on which he stood into a thousand fragments, throwing him at one moment violently against icy masses, at another covering him with a freezing wave. There he sat on the dead bear, his shivering dog at his feet, looking wistfully at his master for help. De Boux saw no help, every moment threatened death, the cold was intense, unbearable; he prayed and asked God to end his sufferings; the ice in the mean time drifted more and more to the Michigan shore, and when day began to break over the water, he could see far in the distance a dark line, which grew until he could distinctly discover land; suddenly the ice on which he lay, stopped. It had joined huge fields of ice. Exhausted and frost bitten, he walked for miles toward the shore on the frozen element, when again the large island of ice broke, drifting steadily toward the Michigan shore. Now he could distinctly see trees and huts, he heard the barking of dogs, he tried to load his gun to fire; impossible, his hands were swollen, and benumbed, he halloed and shouted—no help. And again a night passed, and again day broke over the waters, and he lived still. In the meantime the wind had turned more to the east and forced the ice right in the western shore; crawling on his wounded hands he at last reached terra firma about six miles north of the lighthouse, where some kind-hearted fishermen found him and took him to their shanties.

NAPOLEON once entered a cathedral and saw twelve silver statutes. "What are these?" said the emperor. "The twelve apostles," was the reply. "Well" said he, "take them down, melt them, and coin them into money, and let them go about doing good, as their Master did."

For a Cure of all Throat and Lung Diseases

Is a thin, transparent, oily fluid, extracted by chemical processes from purified juices of the Olive and Pine. The magnetic or concentrated curative power existing in Stafford's Olive Tar renders it an instantaneous and efficient Specific for

BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, ASTHMA, CROUP, WHOOPING COUGH, AND ALL FORMS OF CONSUMPTION, WHEN IT IS TAKEN, APPLIED, OR INHALED.

RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIC, or any other EXTERNAL PAINS cease when OLIVE TAR is applied.

The astonishing success which has attended the use of Olive Tar, when its healing qualities are brought in contact with the Throat and Bronchial Tubes, and all the air cells of the Lungs, unquestionably proves it to be a Specific for all Pulmonary Diseases.

Below are a few of the many distinguished gentlemen who use and recommend the Olive Tar:

The World has ever Produced.

PURELY VEGETABLE,

Contains no Minerals or other Deleterious Drugs.

THE CURATIVE BALSAM is Warranted, if used according to Directions, to cure or relieve in all cases, Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

Madame ZADOC PORTER'S BALSAM is a purely Vegetable Expectorant, prepared with great care and scientific skill, from a combination of the best remedies the vegetable kingdom affords.

Its remedial quantities. are based on its power to assist the healthy and vigorous circulation of the Blood through the Lungs It enlivens the muscles and assists the skin to perform the duties of regulating the heat of the system, and in gently throwing off the waste substance from the surface of the body.

It loosens the phlegm, induces free spitting, and will be found VERY AGREEABLE TO THE TASTE. It is not a violent remedy, but emollient, warming, searching and effective; and can be taken by the oldest person or youngest child.

If you have a Cold, if ever so slight, do not fail to give the Balsam a trial, as the very low price at which it is sold brings it within the reach of every one, that they may always keep it convenient for use. The timely use of a 25 cent bottle will often prove it to be worth a hundred times its cost.

The 75 cent bottle is more profitable to the consumer, as it contains four times the quantity contained in the small bottle.

EMERSON W. PEET, Secretary and Actuary.

This Company, National in its character, offers by reason of its large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.

The rates of premium being largely reduced are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends, and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy-Holder.

Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former, the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.
